RE: Introduction to the Study of Law Program

Welcome to New England Law | Boston! We look forward to your arrival in August. This memorandum is to give you information about our required Introduction to the Study of Law Program during the week of August 16-20, 2010. All incoming students must attend this program.

The program for Day Division, Section D-01 students will begin on Monday, August 16 with registration at 8:15 a.m. and will conclude at 5:00 p.m. You will also need to take your first two Computer Assisted Legal Research (CALR) classes on Thursday, August 19. A schedule of events for your section is enclosed. Please note we will not be ready to register you until 8:15 a.m. and we also will have a light breakfast available for you during the registration time.

For your information, the Introduction to the Study of Law Program is scheduled before regular classes begin to give our incoming students an opportunity to meet one another and become familiar with the law school in a less hectic environment. You can buy your books, find your first class assignments, and figure out the logistics of the law school building and the surrounding area.

The substantive portions of the program are varied, and include lectures and panels on various aspects of the first year of law school and legal study. Our goal is to get you ready for the first few weeks of this new and exciting adventure! Some of your first year professors will be participating in the program and you will get a chance to meet them before the start of regular classes. Also, please note that a boxed lunch will be provided for your convenience. During the lunch time, you will be able to get to know your new classmates, or enjoy some quiet time by yourself. For your convenience, we have not scheduled any other activity during the time set aside for lunch.

As you may know, all of the law school's regular classes begin on Monday, August 23. Most of your professors will expect you to have prepared an assignment for the first day of class. To find assignments go to <http://www.nesl.edu/library/CourseReservesnext.cfm>. This information will be updated as first class assignments are submitted by professors. If you would like to find information about the bookstore, or if you would like to see the list of books required for your courses, this information is posted at <http://www.nesl.edu/students/bookstore.cfm>.

Please check <http://www.nesl.edu/admitted/orientation.cfm> for updated information regarding the program, including a list of frequently asked questions (FAQs). I hope you will find this program interesting, educational, and helpful as you begin your study of law. I look forward to seeing you in August. Please feel free to contact me at dcooper@nesl.edu if you have any questions about this information.

Dear New England Law | Boston Student,

I would like to welcome you to the New England Law | Boston. Before you embark on your law school career, I want to encourage you to make your time at New England Law | Boston as intellectually stimulating and socially rewarding as possible. Take advantage of the many opportunities that you will have during your time here.

I am the Director of the Charles Hamilton Houston Enrichment Program (CHHEP). The program was named after Charles Hamilton Houston, the first General Counsel of the NAACP's Legal Defense Fund and former Dean of Howard University School of Law. It was first established in 1990 to address the concerns of multicultural students as well as promote the issues of diversity within the New England Law student body.

The goal of CHHEP is to sponsor programs and events that address issues of diversity, as well as to offer support and fellowship to students from multicultural backgrounds. Participation is voluntary and our goal is to offer programs, speakers and discussions that all students at New England Law will find enriching and interesting. In the past, CHHEP has sponsored or co-sponsored events to help commemorate occasions such as Asian New Year, Black History Month, Hispanic History Month, Women's History Month, and the anniversary of the historic desegregation court decision, Brown v. Board of Education.

Another goal of CHHEP is to support academic achievement and encouragement for all students. Of the many opportunities, experiences and challenges that you will face in your law school career, the one issue that all law students must succeed at is their academic work. As a result, the CHHEP program will work closely with the Academic Excellence Program to ensure that all students reach their full academic potential.

We invite you to come to our events and meetings and hope that you will choose to participate in CHHEP and lend your own voice, as well. I look forward to meeting you in person. If you have any questions about the program or about law school in general, please do not hesitate to contact me by phone or e-mail at cmitchellmunevar@nesl.edu.

Sincerely,

Caryn R. Mitchell-Munevar
Clinical Professor

RE: Fall 2010 Course Schedules

Welcome to New England Law | Boston. Enclosed is your Fall 2010 First-Year course schedule.

A few notes about this schedule:

ALL INCOMING STUDENTS, PLEASE NOTE:

Legal Research & Writing I section assignments:

The enclosed schedule includes all of your first-year courses with the exception of Legal Research & Writing I. All incoming students will receive their Legal Research & Writing I section assignments at Orientation. There will be an updated Fall course schedule in your Orientation packet; this updated schedule will have your LRW section assignment on it.

FULL-TIME DAY SECTIONS ONLY, PLEASE NOTE:

Full-time day division section assignments:

On occasion, enrollments in the three full-time day sections (D-01, D-02 and D-03) may become unbalanced due to students deferring their enrollment to the next academic year. This may necessitate section reassignments for some students in the full-time day division. This is a very rare instance, but you should carefully check the Fall course schedule you receive at Orientation to see if your section assignment has changed.
