Important Notifications:

- Eligibility for work study will be considered upon receiving your completed application. If awarded federal work study, an employment packet must be completed to become eligible to earn payment for hours worked. Otherwise, the work study award is canceled.
- You are only eligible for work study if your employer agrees to participate in the program. Non-profit employers will be billed for 25% of your gross wages; for-profit employers are billed 50%. When choosing an employer, you must make sure they are willing to meet this standard.
- Work study impacts borrowing abilities. Students are allowed to borrow/receive awards up to annual cost of attendance budget each year. Work study funds awarded count toward that budget, and as a result the amount that can be borrowed through loan programs will be reduced.
- Work study funding is limited. The Office of Financial Aid cannot guarantee awards for all eligible students. If requests exceed available funds, awards will be based on the earliest financial aid file completion date. Notification of work study awards will be sent to eligible students upon receipt of this application.
